“ It is with great sadness that I join your family in saying goodbye to this beautiful lady. I know this is not an easy time for any of us however when my mom passed there was a poem I read that really spoke to my heart. This is of course a paraphrase, but as we are waving goodbye to the ship from this side there are those joyously awaiting and waving hello as she's coming to that side and I know there are so many awaiting her. I do believe that we have joyous "Meet and Greets" as we step off into that wondrous land with streets of gold. There are so many memories to share I hope a few make you smile as they have done me. Your mama in her white tennis shoes, bobby socks and bermuda shorts I thought she was just so cool looking; family picnics in the park; listening to them play cards on friday night; watching your dad play on that old upright piano singing, dancing and laughing; babysitting (I'm still not sure why I babysat since Joe was able) maybe a sibling thing of course it never rubbed off on my mom . I sure wish I could join in your celebration I could use a hug Joe. However, know that you're in my prayers my thoughts and you all have hugs from me. Love to all. Lynn

“ Thank you so much for sharing those great memories of my mom. Our parents had a special friendship, and had many treasured moments together. The poem is beautiful, and the words bring such comfort to me. I bet there are some great sing a longs going on up in heaven right now!

Jackie Turro - June 19, 2020 at 05:35 PM

“ Lynn, yep, I agree with Jackie. That image of those awaiting Mom's arrival is stunning. I've actually given a lot of thought to that concept these past few weeks. There comes a time when we have quite a large crew on the "other side." That certainly does bring comfort — even for when it's our time.

Your description of the younger Barb easily came to mind. You nailed it! And she DID look cool, and since you were/are the coolest, that's high praise. Loved those years, Lynn, as we've discussed so many times. The babysitting thing: I guess back then, a few years made a bigger difference. Maybe I just wasn't trustworthy. Haha

This is a time of reliving the different eras of "Barb." That era was great! Such a tight friendship: Barb and your Mom, Nellie!!! Your family and ours will forever be united by those wonderful years!!!! Much Love to all the Kirkwood clan!!!! Thank you for your beautiful and meaningful thoughts!!!!

“ With great sadness, I want to say goodbye to Mrs. Hendron and send my condolences to her family. For 48 years her son Joe Kregor has been such an enhancement to the lives of so many people. Our ISU family would not have been the same if she hadn't given us her Joe. For that, I would like to thank you. Rest In Peace with the Angels knowing you did a great job, here on Earth
