“ I'll always remember you as your goofy self. Our random midnight drives, blasting your loud ass music, wide awake while i was fighting to stay awake. Random kisses. Hand holding. Your long hugs and jokes when i was down. Talking about having children, starting a family and moving far away from here. I'll remember it all and I'll keep it in my memories forever. Thank you for being a great boyfriend at the time we were together, and a great friend. I'm still in shock. Merry Christmas, you're so missed.

“ Aaron was one of a kind. I enjoyed our brief conversations at work and the jokes and laughter. He helped me in any way he could both at work and personally. Since leaving Lowe's I'd see him in traffic sometimes and he would honk smile and wave. That's how I choose to remember him always smiling.

“ From going out of your way to walk me home every day and making sure I got there safely, walking around town, hanging out, watching tv, movies, taking pictures and talking about life...there are too many fond memories to list. You were like a big brother to me for so long. I'm so sorry that we drifted apart. I'm glad we got to catch up a bit while you worked on my car. Aaron, you were the type of guy that would give the shirt off your back to someone in need. Always. And because of that, I was always proud to call you my friend. I'm happy I got the chance to know you. I hope you've found peace. ❤️

“ I will always remember Aaron as being one of the most unique people I’ve ever met. He was funny, kind hearted, and generous almost to a fault. He was the very definition of a hard worker, a “first one in, last one out” kind of guy, and dirty... ALWAYS so dirty. So much so that I would sometimes call him Pigpen. His smile and quirkiness are going to be greatly missed, but I will truly miss the conversations most. I pray he knows peace and joy on a level that we cannot begin to comprehend. He deserves nothing less.

Aaron and I worked and Lowe’s together, we always joked around with each other. We used to throw a nerf football to each other. If you ever needed help with anything he was the first person to call upon. He showed me his favorite fishing spot at the Kankakee river. We both also loved mini bikes. I will miss him, but I know I will see him again in heaven. We always talked about salvation through Jesus Christ. May the grace of God comfort his family and bring them peace.

“ Aaron... I wouldn't be the person I am today if it wasn't for our friendship. We met at a very young and impressionable age. You helped me to break out of my shell and we developed personalities separate from everyone else around us I believe that's what drove us to become so close. We dressed the same shared clothes with each other. We even had the same hair style in Jr high. A lot of hair gel and flattened down over our eyes and in our face. I think the most dominant characteristic our fellow peers noticed about you was your incredibly high threshold for pain. And you proved that by beating anyone that challenged you in bloody knuckles. You were the toughest kid I knew. And boy did we get into our share of trouble together in Jr high we were regulars at in school suspension and even accidentally broke that bathroom door together which sure costed us. I remember when we were bummed when I was moving to bourbonnais and then shortly after you ended up moving just down the street. We were so happy it was almost like the universe intended us to be best friends. we were around each other so much we even went to summer school together for two years. When we couldn't hang out in person we spent our time on our computers playing runescape together. We even joined computer club at school which we thought was soo nerdy but it gave us a place to sit and play runescape for a couple hours. Then we would hit up the Bradley public library computers and play there for the rest of the day. If it wasn't for you I would have never gotten that paper route of mine it sure was nice having money for the snack machines at school (we were the richest kids in Jr high) and to walk down the street to McDonald's from your house to get 10 mcchickens and stack them in your mini fridge for our snacks throughout the night. We would spend nights up downloading music on limewire and playing with your awesome brand new slide phone until you upgraded to that razer. Aaron I could go on forever recollecting our memories together but you should know that a part of my life went with you today. thank you for being my best friend and thank you for having the biggest impact crafting me into the man I am today. I will never forget our youth we spent together. I am soo happy that you found Jesus Christ and every year at this time I will say a prayer to you up there just promise me now that you will be there too see me when this chaotic world decides that it is my time.

“ I've known Aaron for 10 years, he was my boyfriend first then remained a dear close friend long after. He taught me so much about life and myself, and showed me that its better to remain true to who you are than to force yourself to be someone you're not. He went above and beyond the call of a good friend, he was there for me through everything. He even drove 2-3 hours to visit my mother and i in the hospital after work when he found out she had cancer. He was the strongest person I've ever had the pleasure of meeting and had the purest heart of anyone I've come to know. He will always have a piece of me and i will remain incomplete without him here. I wish i could have been there for him the way he was there for me.

“ Man Aaron you were always so kind hearted and hard working. Working with you the past year has been a real pleasure. I wish I would've gotten to know you better but what I do know is the good die young and although it feels too soon for us I know that God has simply called his child home and we may not easily accept or understand it but we know you're in a place where no demons will ever have a chance to get you. Rest In Peace Aaron

“ I have tons of memories with Aaron, but what stands out the most is our camping trip a couple of summers ago. We had gotten lost on a late night hike and ended going in circles. Although the rest of us were tired and nagging Aaron refused to give up or so we thought. He had secretly called a friend who was at the camp site and told him to pick us up. I'm going to miss you, little one.
