“ So many memories Dad... You were a hard working father, you built us a beautiful home to grow up in, family vacations,sailing with you,Chicago was like a second home,fire calls that terrified us all, line dancing lessons that I hated but I went just to be with you. Life really brings us through it and that's ok. We are all getting in the car today dad to go weather the storm, just like we used to do when us kids were little,except today we are not going to the safety of the fire station. Keep watching the lightning dad and as soon as the storm ends, set sail. Love you.

“ *Remembering you taught me how to fish, I can say I love it to this day
The first male role model father in my life . All those fire calls , off duty, We all packed into the car and were at the sene. Lol Go cart riding in the yard. You were stubborn, mabe I got that from you,, lol . But boating , we shared the same pasion. Would talk for hours about boats. There was forgiveness in this life for you ,but over all you did what I could .RIP dad*
