“ No words can tell how I felt about Annie. She was like a part of my family. My grandmother loved her, my parents loved her and I loved her. My mother told me the story of what she and Pete went through to get to this country. I was in awe. I could tell my parents had great respect for what Annie and Pete did and I did too even though I was too young at the time to fully understand.

As a child, I learned so much from her. I learned how a family works. I learned how to work hard but still have fun. I learned how to be both strong and gentle.

When she would come to our house I would probably drive her nuts because I would follow her around all day. I just loved being with her. I do not remember her ever being cross or having a bad day.

When I got married and started to have a family, I remember her saying, "Remember to start your own holiday traditions so your children will remember them and want to come back home at the holidays." (I did and they do)

I remember her saying, "Now that my children are grown, when they come back home to visit I do not clean until they leave. I just enjoy them." My family will be home this weekend and I plan on remembering that.

Every Christmas I remember Annie and so do my children. That is because she made their Christmas Stockings that I still hang up every year.

You carry the ones you love with you always. I know that, especially when it came to raising my children I would often think, "What would Annie do?". I don't know if I always got it right but I tried.

I will carry her with me always, not just her memory but the things she taught me. I loved her so much.##imported-begin##Joyce (Cookie) Madison Koralik##imported-end##

“ Dear loved ones,

I am so sorry for your loss. I pray that God gives you the strength you need to get through this rough time in your lives. I know that He will be there for you in your time of need.

I'm so sorry that Addyson and I cannot be there to celebrate Auntie Annie's life with you. We loved her so much and she will remain in our hearts forever! I am so glad that we took Addie there to see her a couple weeks ago, we had a great visit and we love how she lit up when the little ones were around. I know that she is holding my Christian in their home with Jesus!

Love you all! God bless you!
