“ We all take time for granted and think we have more time with those we love. You and I due to life circumstances only talked on Sunday and Wednesday, but always ended our call whether short or long with " I love you". I have spent the last few days and nights with your two loving daughters, which our family were robbed of so unfairly. But , I always told you that they would come back home to us. Carol, they are beautiful, loving women, and I promise you, they are a part of our family again and we will all continue to be a family. You are with us forever. Sissy,I love you.
