“ I will never forget how present Dan was. When he walked in a room, it seemed as if he was ready to whatever was next. He made you feel seen and heard. He was so easy to talk with. I saw him last when he came to New York for work. He and my friend and I walked through Prospect Park and he talked fondly of his family and his home in Bradley.

“ I met Dan and spent a day with him earlier this year, shooting a wedding. What a tremendous spirit he had - we had a wonderful conversation during our long drive to location, and I'm shocked and saddened to see him gone so soon. In the 12 hours I spent with him I learned that he loved his family and that he saw the best in people. He was a kind spirit and felt like a good friend after only a day of interacting. If his sons ever read this, know that he had an outgoing personality but was able to put others at ease. He was thoughtful and engaging. And he was sincere in his interactions with others. My condolences to the family.
