“ I remember standing in the doorway to the kitchen of the apartment we lived in on St. Louis in Chicago, with our Grandpa. We were looking at you in the green oval laundry basket on the kitchen table. I told Grandpa, look what mommy brought home for me, a Live baby doll. That is when you became my baby, who was loved with all my heart. I also remember Dad doing tape recordings of Mom singing the Mickey Mouse Club song and you singing in your cute little voice, how you loved your In-da-stew (you still couldn't pronounce my name yet) , like a man. You were my baby. I have loved you little brother since I first saw you and shall love you forever💕. Until we meet again, 😇😭💔

“ Our hearts are broken.
For someone who can always find something to say... the words just aren't there except I love you Uncle Butch.
