“ We grew to know and love Mr. Stone. He accepted our family as part of his. He saw something in our son in giving him the opportunity to cut his lawn and would tell us constantly that he's a good kid and he will be ok. He would always ask about the children even after they had left home. When Larry's father died he was able to share fond memories with Larry about the band his father played in and that he would go and listen to them, these memories became precious to Larry. When Keon came into our lives, we would take him over to visit and Donald would hold him and rock him in his chair. He had a love for Rose that shown constantly in his eyes. Even though we have moved we still thought of Donald and Rose. He was always willing to share his wisdom in story or in faith. His smile and laughter will be missed. I am sorry that we were not able to be there to say our good byes but we know that he is with God and that all is well.
