“ I remember years ago when your parents would bring all of you kids out for dinner on a Friday or Saturday night and I was your waitress. I wasn't sure if I thought your parents were crazy for bringing you all out to eat or the fact that they had five kids! I must say you kids were all very good and well mannered, something that I couldn't say about some with only one child. We got to know each other and I looked forward to your visits. I'm sending prayers for healing hearts. Your dad was a really good guy and will live on in your memories and in your heart.
