“ Jim,

Most of the memories I have of you include you pulling out your wallet or phone to show me the latest photos of Lizzie or Sarah or Jimmy or all three of them. You and Sarah nurtured a family to be proud of.

I remember stories of Lizzie’s successes and how proud you were of her no matter what.

I cannot even begin to imagine what you and yours are going through and have been going through. I’m thankful that God in His wisdom has welcomed Lizzie and that His Spirit will continue to be with you and comfort you. Tim and I are standing in the gap for and with you. We love you and continue to keep you and your family in our prayers.

“ There are no words to convey the love and sympathy I have for you during this time of grief. I'm so sorry for the loss of your darling Lizzie. Only God knows the plan as to why the dark threads are needed as much as the gold and silver. We see the weaving from the below, but He sees it from above. One day we will see His weaving as He does and understand it all. Until then, let your faith, friends, and family comfort you along with the wonderful memories of Lizzie. Hugs, love, and prayers.

“ Sarah, James and James Jr. The pain of her passing is felt far and wide. I am so sorry for this unimaginable tragedy. I did not know Lizzie but her picture says a thousand words and they are all kind and sweet. "Eye has not seen, ear has not heard what God has ready for those who love Him." She must be experiencing her unimaginable joy.
