“ Man I don't even know where to start. Jake was the one of the purest souls, absolutely hilarious, had such a good head on his shoulders when it came to advice and helping others. I've been good friends with Jake since the day I started working at Court Street Ford. That dude was nothing but an amazing person, nothing less. From the goofy side of him to the deep talks about what the future held, he was always there to comfort and care and that's something very valuable nowadays. We had plans to go to six flags with the boys from work before they closed for the season. He could make me laugh until I couldn't catch my breath and those memories will never fade. Sunshine to the rainiest days honestly. We love you jake🕊️Rest easy my friend.

“ I worked with jake at court street and the whole 6 months i have worked there me and jake became closest in the last month, we talked alot more at work and hung out outside of work. Jake became one of the people i felt like i needed around, i could always talk to him and he would always listen and help me best as he could. Jake was the calm when we needed calm, and the wild funny guy when we were down. He never ceased to make me smile at least 10 times in a day. I love you man rest up. I might pickup the guitar one more time liked we talk about and learn something for ya.

“ Jacob will always be one of our brothers, shits not gonna be the same without him, hoping up there treating him better then down here. Hope your souls resting and living on man. Won't forget all the life lessons we've went through and learned together. Wish we would have went and bought that acoustic guitar like we were talking about the whole last 2 weeks.
