“ *Oh Dad you know I miss you so very much and life as it is now will never be the same without you here. I was so blessed to be able to be with you during the time you were in the hospital before the good lord took you home. I know you are happy and feel no more pain now but it is so painful to let you go. Always know you are loved so very much by me now and forever. When my time comes and I am called home I will see you in heaven and we may rejoice in happiness again. Keep watching over me and leading me in the right direction, for you always guided me and got me where I needed to be.
