“ *Larry, Those of us who knew you almost our whole lives understood your simple way of putting things. Your language reflected your inner being--sometimes funny, sometimes cynical, always strong, always sure, and never afraid. Yours was a life well-lived. Ronda said you did all you wanted to do in life. I say you wanted to do it longer but God had other plans. We remember your childhood, growing up, working, fighting with us over card games and always being a part of our lives. You said it all in your last words to Ronda, "I love you." You might have said it to all of us who really knew you.
Rest in peace old Crud! One of your pals, Peabody For those of us remaining, consider the words of John Donne, "...and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."*

I regret that we have not seen each other in person for so many years. I remember you most as a child and growing boy on my visits with my parents before and after their move to Manteno. God take you in his loving arms.
