“ Missy, I know you and Gramma D. (Delores Pasel) are up there giving Jeff heck...
Way too many memories to list. In the hospital, you said your favorite was when we would stand up through Darin's T Tops and point up in the sky to make other drivers look up. Many of my memories are favorites, but what stands out the most is when you would ask me, "Julie, aren't you cold?" and then you would have me adjust the heat. Jeff would come home and ask "Missy, why is the heat up so high?" you would say, "Julie was cold." (!) Or when you would want a picture hung up and you would tell me to pound the nails in and hang the picture so you could stand back to make sure it wasn't crooked. Jeff would come home and be all "mad" because there was a picture up..."Missy, I TOLD you I did not want any holes in these walls!" Missy: "I know, Jeff, but Julie hung it up." All the Thanksgiving dinners and just hanging out. We always managed to create memories each time....I love you.

“ I have known Missy since and her family moved to S. Anne. It was truly a joy to be around her, She ,Jeff and my husband and I went to dinner one evening , Missy was driving and putting on her make up at the same time. Laughing about being rushed. When we got to the restaurant , they had a contest to see who could eat the most lobster tails. What a joyous evening we had, I will always remember that smile of hers and the laughter. R.I.P. sweet girl.

“ Everytime I saw Missy, she was always smiling. I wasn't as close to her as I would have liked to have been, but she always treated me like one of her own! Her wit and humor was a few of her many charms! Her laugh was contagious! She would always joke on Chad :) We got to share 8th grade graduation after party together and it was so much fun! It was one of the last times I got to spend more than a few minutes with her and she made a point to stop by Aaron's graduation party! That meant a lot to me! I would have loved for her to meet Ben while she was still able to, but I know she is looking down on us from heaven!! I will pray for her family and her children and I will miss her!

I will keep praying for her children, family, and friends to be held by God's loving arms and guide them through this sad time. I know she and Jeff will be watching over their children from above.
