“ Whenever people talk about "heroes", I always think of Pat. i¿½He might have never pulled anyone from a burning building, or saved someone from drowning, but he was more of a hero than anyone I have ever met. i¿½He quietly and unassumingly took on an entire family when they were lost. i¿½There were never any headlines or news stories, but rest assured that anyone who ever heard the story of Sue and Pat's family felt the love they shared and hopefully, a little of it rubbed off on them. You have always been and will remain in our prayers.##imported-begin##Margaret Bridges##imported-end##

“ I lived with pat's materanl grandmother at the time he was born and remember a cute spirited little guy who was full of energy. We sort of lost track with each other over the years as families do, but I know God will reward him for all he did for his large family and I am sure he is in the arms of his Mom and Dad and grandparents Grace and Jack Lyons. God Bless you all!##imported-begin##Joyce Gutrich##imported-end##

“ All I know is that for the both of you to take in an expanded family makes you the best kind of people - now one less. God must have had a reason to take Pat away - what a shock for you all! There are never the right words to express our deepest sympathy during this time. We wish you and your family well.##imported-begin##Bill & Ingrid Noe##imported-end##
