“ What can I say about Rick that has not been said at one time or another? He was at times, crude, rough around the edges, and opinionated. Alas; if you could see through the toughened exterior he put on and see the kind, caring, helpful man that Rick was then you saw the man I like to remember.

I learned many things from Rick; some of these ideas I still use to this very day (some still get me in trouble...ha). He was the type of guy who would give you the shirt off of his back if you needed it. If you looked up "Street smart" or someone who was knowledgeable of things that were real world oriented and not something from a book (though just as important) you would find a footnote and a photograph of Ricky Fisher.

He too was a landlord to me, as well as an ear to chew on, a shoulder to lean on, and a great uncle. I am forever grateful for all he did for me as a man and a nephew. I am in hopes that the peace you sought in life has been met and that someday we will all meet up again in the Kingdom of Heaven.

Sleep well Uncle Rick...

“ You were like a dad even before you and my mom got married. You helped me out with anything and everything you possibly could. I have learned how to do so many things from watching you over the years. You were my friend, landlord, co-worker, and step father. You can rest assured that you will not be forgotten. Thank you for everything. Rest in Peace.

Well, although we had some differences, it was always fun to ride with you, I always knew where you stood, cause you weren't shy about expressing your opinions. Even tho we had drifted apart recently, I often had thoughts of you and the "Indian" and your "ride it like you stole it" attitude. RIP "Raghead" you will be missed. I pray you will have nothing but safe rides for eternity.
