“ Steve grew up about a block away from me and my twin brother, Marc. We had a lot of fun playing strategy games at his house. Steve always had a fun disposition, and was a gentle soul. Not once did we argue and get into trouble as kids and high school are sometimes wont to do. He was a good guy and I always wondered what happened to him after the last time I saw him, which was in 1972 when he came to my wedding.

Steve and I were college roommates at Illinois State University. He was an usher at my wedding in 1969. We stayed in touch until about 1978. He was living in Schaumburg and working for the Social Security Administration in downtown Chicago. This past month I saw his name in the Alumni News and have tried to get more information. He has a brother and sister in-law who live in Ohio but I have not been able to connect with them.
