“ Cheri

Thoughts and prayers to you and your family at this extremely difficult time. Though words can't express the true sympathy, take some peace in knowing Troy was a true family man. I did not have the honor of knowing him long, but in discussions we had, I know that is true.

*In deepest sympathy

“ I write this to you my friend with tears in my eyes as you are like a brother to me. I will really miss our conversations on all subjects from your wonderful family to current events. Your passion for God, family and country is very strong and my absolute respect for you is without question and God willing someday our paths will cross again and we can catch up on our conversations of life.

Godspeed to you and to your family, Meghan and Cheri will be ok as time goes on, and your presence will always be with us in spirit. As I have said many times to you "your the best Troy" and your with God now, probably looking down on us and smiling with your great smile.

Love Gregg and Cathleen

“ I am beyond sad!! I have so many good memories of my brother-in-law. Troy and I worked together and he always brought me dunkin doughnut coffee. He just wanted to make everyone smile with silly jokes, poking fun and just loved being around everyone. I only regret we should have done this more. Life! The day that he and Cheri were married was very special to witness, he was so emotional at the alter and he took his vows seriously so I felt he would love her forever - which he did! Then when Meghan came along - she had him wrapped around that tiny finger. I pray that she and Cheri never doubt the love and sacrifice he had for them. I love you Troy and I was blessed to call you my family!
